John Dillinger is dead. The escaped convict, labeled "public enemy No. 1," was shot down by police as he emerged from a Chicago hotel Sunday night. Dillinger died where he fell. Blood spilt on the sidewalk, and when the body was removed bystanders hunting for new papers fought to mop up the red spots with handkerchiefs and newspapers.

A fire at Strathmore, Alberta, Sunday morning completely destroyed a large section of the business district. Damage is estimated at $100,000.

The Highwood-Steeles well at the southern tip of Turner Valley field in Sunday afternoon with an estimated production of 500 barrels of naptha per well. The well is one of Alberta's largest producers and it opens up a new oil-producing area.

Itala in Calgary district over the week-end broke the 100 bushel record brought relief to late sown crops. A light rain fell at Lethbridge.

Crop reports from Cardston indicate that district will harvest a good crop this fall. Some of the yields it is said, will compete in size with those of better years.

Drumheller truck owners and other business men are anxious to cause the provincial government awarded a graveling contract in that district to a Didsbury man with no provision made for the use of local trucks and supplies.

A city resident protests against Calgary's new ruling that a $10 fine be charged for certain breeds of large dogs. He charges the ulterior motive behind the rule is the slaughter of most of the "poor dogs" in the city. He maintains that the "wolf strain" theory is ridiculous, and that in nearly 2000 years these dogs have been reared and used as shepherd dogs.

The crop situation in the Goose Lake line, east of Drumheller, is serious. H. F. S. Grisdale, minister of agriculture, estimated that government relief for farmers there may be necessary.

The city of Red Deer held a three-day fair Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Red Deer also celebrated its fiftieth anniversary.

Birds are still flying north. At Fort McMurray, northern Alberta, last week flocks of golden plovers were heading northward from Arctic nesting grounds to their breeding grounds in higher latitudes.

The heat wave in the central United States claimed 75 lives up till yesterday. The drought has caused billions of dollars damage to crops, and thousands of cattle face starvation. The water shortage is acute.

The first winter wheat of the 1924 crop was delivered to a Yaberi elevator Wednesday.

Farber McAdam, Catholic priest of Strathmore, has been missing for three days from a Red Deer hospital. A crowd of searchers is scouring the mountains and valleys in the vicinity of the summer resort.

The Hon. Mr. Grisdale, Alberta's new minister of agriculture, told a Strathmore audience here should be some form of crop insurance to the farmers over the lean years.

Chas. A. Hayden, formerly a member of the editorial staff of the Calgary Herald, and now editor of "Country Life in B. C." published at Vernon, urged a new and sensible system for the marketing of primary products when he addressed a primary marketing conference at Oils, Alta., yesterday.

New relief measures for drought-stricken southern Saskatchewan have commenced. Food is to be provided for pigs and poultry, and transportation will be arranged for settlers and livestock to move to districts where conditions are better. More than 2,000 square miles of south Saskatchewan is little better than a desert.

Kill Adult Hoppers Urge Govt. Officials

Government Officials Regret Poisoning Adult Hoppers Before Leg Laying Begins—Pete Killick Now Means 100 Less Next Year

Officials of the federal and provincial departments of agriculture, working on the grasshopper campaign in Alberta have issued a strong appeal to farmers in the infested areas to redouble their efforts during the next few weeks, declaring that the critical point has now been reached.

"There is a general impression that poisoning operations can no longer be carried on to advantage," declared H. L. Beaumont, of the Dominion entomological service at Lethbridge, who has been working in co-operation with the provincial field crop branch, which have been directing the campaign against the hoppers. "Time spent on spreading bait during July and August is well spent, not only in actual crop saving but in reducing the hopper menace next year."

Bait stations, which have been in operation will be kept open, state provincial officials, and bait will be available without charge for anyone who will use it. There is considerable evidence of extensive migrations of hoppers during the summer. These migrations may drop into any district where there is green vegetation and cause serious losses in a very short time. Such migrating hoppers are particularly harmful after their long flight and will take poisoned bait very rapidly. The young hoppers feed on the leaves of plants and the loss resulting is multiplied with favorable weather. The loss caused by the full grown hoppers is greatly underestimated and is irreparable. The winged hoppers usually feed high up on the stem, dropping the heads of grain to the ground, and the loss can be reduced by using bait.

The winged grasshoppers will soon be concentrated in restricted areas, and the loss of grain after this time can be reduced by using bait. A single pair of grasshoppers killed at this time may mean from 100 to 200 less hoppers in that area next season. Farmers who tried last summer to poison the hoppers are surprised at the crop saving, but more particularly at the scarcity of hoppers in the stubble this spring. The loss caused by the hoppers is desire to continue this practice. A concerted effort on the part of every acre in a district to spread bait on all grasshopper concentrations during July and August is strongly urged. In fact, such poisoning is just as important as that done in the early spring, and must be pushed just as vigorously.

Mr. Cawsey was presented with a pair of silver vases as a parting gift, with the good wishes of her many friends.

Twenty guests attended the gathering. Court which was played, Mrs. S. H. Edwards and T. Ingbergh winning the first prize, and the consolation going to Mrs. H. A. Holmes and Mrs. M. R. Cawsey.

Light Showers Fail to Benefit Grain—Wheat Matures Rapidly—Late Sown Wheat Badly in Need of Moisture.

Parched wheat fields received but slight relief with light showers falling last Thursday afternoon and again on Wednesday this week. The precipitation brought only 3.1 inch of rain at Bassano, 37 at the dam, 32 at Colesburg, and 37 at Lethbridge. The rain was not enough to make the soil moist.

The drought continues, and between early sown and late sown wheat the crops are pared off the estimated yield the farmer will harvest.

Late sown wheat is suffering the greatest damage. It is reported some fields will be without cutting. If the heat and drought continue, harvesting with a binder is expected to begin soon, and cutting will commence in two or three weeks.

On irrigated land the grain is making a good growth, and an average crop is expected.

WHAT THE PEOPLE WANT

In organizing a series of economic conferences throughout the province, the Alberta Liberal party has introduced a novel and unique plan of getting in touch with the people.

Already two such conferences have been held—one in Lethbridge and one in Medicine Hat. It is proposed to hold the third in Calgary in August 4 and 7.

The Liberal plan is a radical departure from the customary party method of building a platform and then going about the country and holding meetings to tell the electors how good it is.

Outstanding the Liberal plan disregards party lines. All groups, associations and individuals, regardless of party affiliations, are invited to attend the conferences and give their opinions as to what is needed to remedy the economic ills of the province.

And the Liberals are achieving some success in commanding the attention of representative groups. For the Western Coal Operators, the Independent Oil Operators, and the Western Stock Growers Association have intimated they would be represented at the Calgary conference.

In a measure the economic conference idea resembles the working of the U. F. A. group. The farmers who hold their regular meetings only discuss their problems. These are acted at the annual conference, resolutions and recommendations are passed, and these are forwarded to the provincial farm government.

The difference between the Liberal plan and that of the U. F. A. is that the latter is confined to only one class of the people. The Liberals invite all classes to their conferences.

Liberal members hope to learn the nature and extent of the economic difficulties confronting the people and assist them in formulating remedial measures.

If the party ship were abandoned and a union of all groups formed to further the good of the people as a whole, then these conferences might form the foundation of a new and better economic structure.

But the conferences are organized by Liberals. Will the U. F. A. group contribute anything to them? Will the Conservatives joined they are Tories and supply some of the fuel for the building of a new Liberal platform?

A FEMINE ART

One of the first arts woman learns is sewing.

Fortune a primitive household of prehistoric days. A bright fire burns near the mouth of the cave-man's wife. A woman, his woman, squats nearby. Occasionally she tosses a target on the flames. Her first and most important duty is to keep the fire burning. The fire gives warmth on chilly nights; it is useful in hardening the points of spears; it cooks the meat her man brings home from the hunt.

He is away on the hunt now, and while he is away she minds the children, keeps the fire burning—and sews.

The stitches are crude and bright; the material is an animal's skin cured in the smoke of the fire and softened with much rubbing; the thread, made from the animal's intestines, is coarse and stiff—but she plies her home textile and fashions a crude garment to cover her limbs and her breasts.

Her keen feminine eye appraises the lines of the new garment. She tries it on. She makes little alterations here and there; and when it is finished she steps lightly over to the nearby pool and gazes at her reflection mirrored in the limpid waters.

The cave-woman has originated a new art, and her descendants all down thru the ages have cherished and developed it.

Love of sewing and fine clothes is inherent in the heart of the average woman. Hence the interest in the sewing class conducted this week under the auspices of the Bassano Women's Institute.

The provincial government fosters the plan; the sewing instructor travels from place to place, giving instruction and advice on the making of wearing apparel and feminine fashions; and many women are glad of the opportunity to improve their skill with the needle and thread.

Increased interest is evidence of the popularity of one of the oldest arts practised by woman.

Producing four different letter-heads at one impression, using two kinds of paper stock and printing four different colors at the same time, can be done by presses equipped with a new device.

Jelly-Making

Three substances are essential to a good jelly. They are pectin, sugar and acid. Pectin is the primary jellying agent. It varies considerably in fruits both in quality and quantity. Analysis of small fruits in the chemical laboratories of the Central Experimental Farm, has shown many readily pectin delicates. To retain their maximum jellying capacity, these fruits should be picked when just ripe and should be used as soon as possible after picking.

Sugar plays an important part in jelly formation. Texture, flavor, and yield of jelly are largely determined by the amount of sugar added. Ordinarily, the best jellies contain about 56 to 68 per cent of sugar in the finished product, but the necessary amount of sugar to be added will vary with the composition of the fruit. Too much sugar in proportion to pectin and acid is one of the most common causes of failure in jelly making. Other things being equal, a weak jelly results from the addition of too much sugar and a tough jelly from the addition of too little.

The acid content, of more correct, the active acidity of fruits is the third essential of jelly formation. If it is too low, the jelly will not "set". All fruits contain acid in varying amount. It general the acid in the fruit provides sufficient active acidity for the making of a good jelly, provided that sufficient pectin and sugar are present.

Investigations in the chemical laboratories, have shown how important it is to obtain a proper balance between pectin, sugar and active acidity to produce the best jelly.

A combination of 6.2 per cent acid and 6.2 per cent pectin with 62 per cent sugar was found to give a very satisfactory product.

A famous banker was seated next to a woman from a small town in the West. He attempted to make conversation.

"I have been so busy with my own personal affairs," he said, "that I have never found the time to study many subjects which appeal to me. For instance, I can't tell you what makes that electric lamp glow."

"How peculiar!" said his companion, with a patronizing air. "You simply press the button, and there it is!"

The New Member

Committee: "We wish to make you treasurer of our club."

Virtue: "Thanks for the honor. How much is there in the treasury?"

Committee: "At present there is a deficit but we thought you might be willing to make it up."

"Have you seen the candidate yet?"

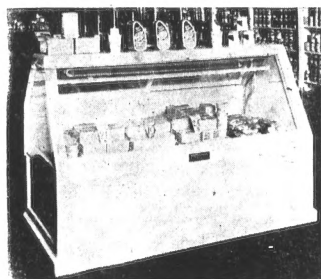

"Yes, he flew over our house this morning and dropped down a lot of literature and threw a kiss in the baby."

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

The change which has taken place in medicine, thanks to increasing knowledge, is well illustrated by recalling that not so long ago, hemorrhage from the lung was considered to be a cause of tuberculosis and not, as we now know it to be, a result of the disease.

The old belief was based upon an observation that a progressive tuberculosis followed, in many cases, upon hemorrhage. Reference is made to this belief because it is the purpose of this article to point out to our readers that as haemorrhage from the lung is so commonly a symptom of tuberculosis, all such bleeding should be considered as being due to tuberculosis until proved otherwise.

The appearance of blood in the mouth is the first evidence of tuberculosis in many cases. Looking back other symptoms may have preceded it, but it was the hemorrhage which first made the patient realize that there was something amiss, and so sent him to his doctor. It is likely unfortunate that all cases of tuberculosis do not experience a hemorrhage very early in the disease. Those who ignore such symptoms as fatigue, loss of weight, or persistent coughs, are sufficiently frightened by finding blood in their mouths or observing it in their sputum to seek medical care.

Although the sight of blood frightens the patient, the hemorrhage itself is rarely dangerous. Nearly all hemorrhages subside without, in themselves, doing the patient any serious harm. Hemorrhages which occur early in the disease may do a great deal of good, indirectly, because they bring the patient under treatment in that early stage of the disease when there is a much better chance for recovery, thus lessening the required time for treatment, and decreasing the danger of spreading the disease to others.

Hemorrhage from the lungs may be caused by disease other than tuberculosis. A thorough medical examination and a study of the patient's condition are required to determine the cause in each particular case. Practically, it means that the appearance of blood should always be regarded seriously, and that the cause should be immediately ascertained. This is the only means whereby proper early treatment may be secured.

We are meeting with considerable success in our war on tuberculosis, but there is still much to be done before this foe is vanquished. Individually and collectively, we can help by knowing more about the beginnings of the disease, in order that those who show or who experience the signs or symptoms associated with the onset of tuberculosis may not delay in finding out the true cause of these symptoms in their particular case and, when necessary, secure the early treatment which is most effective.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 181 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Heavy aluminum frying pans or griddles will clean up most easily by placing them over a hot flame.
Grease or burns and the worst stains will come off and the pans will clean up brightly.

Slick, soiled leather on furniture may be best cleaned by rubbing with a piece of cheesecloth moistened with banana oil and following it up with a clean soft cloth.

Keep bamboo furniture in good condition by going over it occasionally with equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine.

An easy way to polish windows is to rub them with a chamise dipped in a full strength or strong solution of rubbing alcohol.

If you like your bronze ornaments clean and polished, rub them with a little furniture polish and wipe them clean with a dry cloth.

A decidedly attractive way of preparing baked potatoes is to remove them from the shell after roasting, mash them with butter, salt and pepper and a well-beaten yolk of egg.
Then replace them in the half-shells and bake them in the oven. They taste better and they're much more easily handled at the table.

Even the most delicate fabric may be cleaned of ink-stains with a tespoonful of lemon juice diluted in a saucepan of hot water. Soak the fabric a short while, pour over it with a brush dipped in a solution of glycerine and water and follow that with a few drops of ammonia solution.

Save time and trouble in washing
a stack of dishes by passing each dish under the hot water faucet before regular washing. The worst of the grease goes down the drain and the washing is much easier, requiring fewer changes of water.

When roasting lamb or beef, shake
a pinch of cinnamon on the bottom of the oven before putting the meat in, and allow it to remain while the meat is cooking. You avoid the heavy odor of the oven usually associated with roasting either of these meats.

Automatic telephones are rapidly
being installed in Northern Ireland.
Recently the twenty-third rural automatic exchange was opened and a number of others are in course of erection.

Designed in Sizes: 14, 16, 18, 20,
with bust measures 32, 34, 36, 38,
and 40 and 42. Size 18 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material. Belt of ribbon requires 1 1/2 yards.

DOUBLE SLEEVES

Pattern 8254. Since cotton is king for the summer and cotton materials have earned their right to supremacy by being unusually lovely in texture and design, designers are using cotton for the development of clothes for every occasion.
Here is a design charming enough for a summer dance frock, of printed voile or net. A tulle slip is good style with sheer dresses, for ladies make now when they move.
The slip is not given with the pattern. The full double sleeves and pointed laces on bodice and skirt are the interesting points of this design which is extremely simple and easy to make.

Money and Men

(The House Herald)

In times of depression the idea of Satanism in money rises to the pitch of obsession. One who adopts an authoritative attitude on money matters will be inundated with letters and conversations from hundreds of people telling how Satan
may be cast out and what terrible things will happen otherwise.

The Satanism of money consists in this: if money is plentiful enough it is not valuable enough; if it is valuable enough it is not plentiful enough. All schemes of reform, the old and the new, are based upon the fact that money is not plentiful
enough. All schemes of reform, the
old and the new, are based upon the
fact that money is not plentiful
enough. All schemes of reform, the
old and the new, are based upon the fact that money is not plentiful
enough.

Mr. Aberhart may possibly accomplish more through his preachings and teachings to rectify money system than through his effort to implant the Douglas system on Alberta's soil. Let human nature be reformed and, we repeat, any kind of money will prove perfectly sufficient.
